'WHITE WAY' AGAIN

CITY COUNCIL HAD THE MATTER UNDER CONSIDERATION FRIDAY.

GAVE HELLER HIS LICENSE

For Six Months at Least Maryville's Wettest Block is to Have Saloon—Sidewalk Ordinances Passed.

The plan to have a "white way" in Maryville on Main street from Second to Fifth street was discussed by the city council at their meeting held Friday evening. The council is favorable to the proposition, which was presented by John L. Hoffman, secretary of the Commercial club. The plan is to have the merchants on this street install the lights, to be a similar light to the one in front of the Empire theater, and then to have the city pay for the upkeep. The intention is to have three posts on each side of a block, these posts to have five lights each.

The county court will be interviewed by Mr. Hoffman to see if the county would help in the matter of putting up the lights on the west side of the court house yard.

Many other cities the same size as Maryville, have the "white way," which is a good proposition for any city.

The council granted a saloon license to W. A. Heller. The saloon opened for business Saturday morning. The license is for only six months.

Several ordinances condemning the sidewalks on South Depot street were passed.

NEW CHICKEN DISEASE.

Cause is Attributed to Inactivity of the Birds During the Hot Summer Months.

The poultry department at the University of Missouri has had its attention called to a disease which seems to be attacking young chicks weighing over a pound. One farmer reported losing over one hundred and that his neighbors were losing them in a similar manner. An examination proved the trouble to be visceral gout.

There are no symptoms previous to death aside from the chick having an unusual appetite. Also the birds are very poor in flesh. Upon examination the membranes lining the abdominal cavity and the intestines and also those surrounding the heart are covered with grayish, slate colored specks. Gout is caused by failure of the kidneys to perform their functions and the gray specks are crystals of uric acid. Probably the inactivity of the bird during hot weather has much to do with the trouble. In this particular case the feed consisted largely of corn and corn meal, which would cause the trouble.

The cure is to give the chicks a dose of epsom salts at least twice a week until the trouble ceases one-quarter teaspoonful to each bird. As a preventative measure, epsom salts in the drinking water, a tablespoonful to a gallon fed once a week will prove helpful. The feed should not consist of corn alone, but bran should be used in the ration. The ration used for growing chicks at the university experiment station consists of wheat and cracked corn and a dry mash consisting of bran, middlings, corn meal, equal parts by weight, to which is added 10 per cent beef scrap. By supplying plenty of green food, shade, fresh water and skim milk, no such trouble has occurred in the university flocks.

Merrill Christy is Recovering.

Dr. W. B. Christy, who was called to Hot Springs, Ark., several weeks ago by the illness of his son Merrill Christy, of typhoid fever, has returned and resumed work as district superintendent of the M. E. conference. Dr. Christy's son will arrive in Maryville Monday to remain until he has fully recovered from his sickness.

Mrs. W. C. VanCleve and sons, William and Kenneth, returned home Saturday morning from a visit at LaGrange, Mo., and at Moberly. They have been away since the first of the year, being with Mr. VanCleve at Washington.

REPORT BIG YIELDS VOTED FOR BOOHER

WHEAT AND OATS CROP IN COUNTY SURPRISINGLY LARGE.

BIGGERSTAFF SAYS HE IS DEMOCRAT—WILL SUPPORT NOMINEE.

QUALITY ALSO EXTRAGOOD NOT ALWAYS FOR PEACE

J. A. KAVANAUGH THRESHED OVER 75 BUSHELS OF OATS TO THE ACRE—MANY OTHERS HAVE BIG CROPS.

Reports are coming in from over the county of the large wheat and oats yield by the farmers. The crop was an exceptionally good one.

J. A. Kavanaugh of Graham was in the city Saturday and reported that on his farm, near Graham, which is run by Matt Hall, he had an average of seventy-five and one-third bushels of oats to the acre. He had only eight acres planted in oats. This is the highest oats yield yet reported. His rye yield average thirty bushels to the acre.

M. Kavanaugh is of the opinion that there will be a bumper corn crop in the country if we will get some more rain soon. On Richard Kyle's farm, near Graham, which is run by Frank Kettigner, they had an average of forty bushels of wheat to the acre.

Preston Seafers of Maryville, who has a farm in the Harmony church neighborhood, reported that he had an average of twenty-nine and one-third bushels of wheat out of seventy acres. He had it sent to the elevator at Ravenwood, managed by Joe Peterson, and received 90 cents a bushel for it. He has 800 more bushels to thresh.

Big Yield of Wheat.

Henry Russell, living two miles south of Hopkins, has just finished threshing a fourteen-acre field of wheat that yielded him 51½ bushels to the acre. Would anyone grumble at that.

The Democrat-Forum would be glad to publish from the farmers over the county what their wheat and oats yield amounted to.

RECIPE FOR KEEPING COOL.

Wiley's Successor Tells How to Live in Hot Weather.

Suggestions for keeping cool have been issued by the agricultural department. The advice of the department, while not original, is generally recognized to be sound. To follow it, one must be moderate in eating, moderate in moving, and must not take more than one tiny drink, the kind that tinkles in a glass, during an evening. Then if one carefully and thoroughly dismisses all thoughts of the heat from the mind, complete and refreshing coolness will result, according to the agricultural experts.

"Don't think it is hot, don't worry and don't get heated," said Dr. R. E. Doolittle, acting chief of the pure food bureau and successor to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert. "Don't look at the thermometer every two minutes. Just try to forget the weather and you'll be surprised to find how much less you feel it."

"Alcoholic drinks, beer, gin, or anything like it should be avoided," he continued, thoughtfully wiping the perspiration from his brow and shifting his chair the better to get the benefit of the cooling breezes from an electric fan. "A little ice water, I find, is not harmful. Possibly one tiny drink, the kind that tinkles in the glass, taken in the evening, is all right.

"There is no objection to lemonade and soda fountain beverage. The acids and soda in the latter are positively beneficial to ward off heat. Once a day is often enough to eat meat in hot weather—never two or three times. Be sure, too, that any fish or sea foods are absolutely fresh. These and stale milk cause typhoid. Ice cream, too, is not harmful."

"Moderation in all things, eating and working, is imperative. Take a vacation, sure. If you can't, be sure your wife does; she probably needs it more than you do. Every man, though, ought to take a vacation. Vacations are good investments for any business firm to give their employees. Also loaf, sleep, and take it as easy as you can all the time. Don't overexert."

"Wear as light underwear as possible. But above all things stay away from the thermometers and forget the weather."

Here From Graham.

The following from Graham were in the city Saturday: J. A. Kavanaugh, Thomas Fleming, Dr. Morgan, J. C. Pecker, Wm. Morris and John Kennedy.

The talk was made along the lines of the history and development of the manual training of the United States and what is done in the other states, and what they hope to do in Missouri.

The lecture was listened to very attentively by a large size crowd and was very much enjoyed.

However, during the past year he has been kept busy almost continuously on big jobs here in Creston, and as he has a great deal more work in sight here he has decided to come here for permanent residence. The family will occupy the fine modern home at the corner of North Pine and Howard streets.

Washington, July 27.—After weighing it down with two amendments known to be objectionable to the Democrats, the senate passed the house special excise tax bill by a vote of 37 to 15. The measure provides for a tax of 1 per cent on incomes of $5,000 a year or more, both of individuals and corporations.

The amendments provide for a repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act and the creation of a tariff commission. The first was offered by Senator Bronson of North Dakota and the latter by Senator Cummings of Iowa. Cummings' amendment was the same as that lost when the Penrose substitute wool bill was turned down in favor of the La Follette measure.

Might be Unconstitutional.

The Democratic majority stood almost solidly against any change in the house bill that would threaten its success. They declared the "tax on business" was clearly constitutional, while an income tax law had once been held unconstitutional by the supreme court and might again suffer that fate, until the states ratify the amendment to the federal constitution.

The measure was changed from the original house bill only in minor particulars except for the addition of the Canadian reciprocity repeal, and the permanent tariff commission provision. It will go back to the house for the approval of that body and it is believed an agreement soon will be reached, so that a perfected measure can be laid before the president for his approval.

Special Tobacco Tax Failed.

The senate made a change in the excise bill so that the tax would not apply to labor organizations, agricultural associations or fraternal organizations of an insurance character. That amendment was offered by Senator Fletcher. A plan to check the tobacco monopoly by a special excise tax on production above a certain amount, offered by Senator Hitchcock, was defeated.

The Hitchcock proposal was a special tax on the production of more than 20,000,000 pounds of tobacco, 400,000,000 cigars, the same number of cigarettes and 4,000,000 pounds of snuff by any one company. For an annual production above that quantity the tax would rise rapidly so that it would soon become prohibitory. Senator Hitchcock declared such a taxing system would curb a tobacco monopoly which the government had failed to do.

FEAR RESULT OF TRUST SUITS

Kingfisher, Ok., Business Men Wire Protest Against Proposed Steel Dissolution.

Guthrie, Ok., July 27.—Residents of Kingfisher wired Attorney General Wickesham at Washington as follows:

"We understand that you contemplate bringing legal proceedings against the United States Steel Corporation with a view of dissolving the same. Since the dissolution of the Standard Oil company and the tobacco trust their commodities sold to the people have steadily advanced in price.

"If you commence proceedings against the United States Steel Corporation, it can only result, in our opinion, in making the people pay more for all commodities in which steel is used. We hope you will seriously consider this matter before bringing the proposed suit."

The telegram was signed by C. W. Smith, bank president; P. S. Nagle, head of the Socialist party, and others.

NAVY MAY USE HYDROPLANES

Figures Called for to Equip Every Warship With Speedy Machines.

Washington, July 27.—Each battle ship of the navy will be equipped with a speedy hydroplane within the next year, if the latest plans of the navy department materialize.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, acting secretary, has called upon manufacturers to notify the department not later than August 15 whether they will submit hydroplane designs to meet naval requirement. It is proposed to have machines sustain a speed in the air of not less than 50 miles an hour, carrying two passengers.

Needed New Tires.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—A gang of bandits drove up in a motor car before a tire manufacturing shop in the downtown district, smashed a big plate glass window and stole more than $1,000 worth of tires. Despite the presence of numerous pedestrians on the street, the bandits took no precautions against making a noise in breaking the window.

ALDERMEN CAUGHT BY MARKED BILLS

Big Bribery Deal Uncovered Among Detroit Councilmen.

EIGHT ALREADY UNDER ARREST

One Man Got $1,000, Others Smaller Amounts for Favorable Vote on Wabash Railroad Land Grant—Others Arrests Expected.

Detroit, Mich., July 27.—Eight aldermen and the secretary of the common council committees were placed under arrest on charges of accepting bribes and conspiracy to accept a bribe for their votes and influence in the passing of a measure affecting city property recently transferred to the Wabash railroad.

At least six other arrests of aldermen are expected and it is alleged that $3,700 passed hands in sums of from $100 to $1,000. The officials already arrested are: Thomas Glinnan, president of the council, who is alleged to have received $1,000; E. R. Schreiter, Jr., secretary of council committees and also secretary of the American League of Municipalities, who is charged with agreeing to accept $500; Alderman Joseph L. Thelson, Martin J. Ostrowski, Patrick O'Brien, Louis Tossy, Frank J. Mason, Louis Broso and Alderman Deimel, the last three being charged with accepting $100 each.

"Honest Tom" Confessed.

Alderman Glinnan has long been known in city politics as "Honest Tom." When arrested it is said he turned over $1,000 in marked bills and made a complete confession. Schreiter, who, it is asserted by the authorities, engineered the affair, was arrested in his office. He had not received any money, but the officers say he went to the office of the detectives, who were acting under the guise of Wabash railroad officials, to get his money and saw the police who had just arrested Glinnan. It is said that he also made a statement to the officers.

The detectives assert they have caught their men not only with marked money but by telephonic testimony and phonograph records.

Councilmen Changed Front.

The investigation which culminated in the arrests, has been going on since February, when rumors of graft in the aldermanic council body began to assume serious proportions.

Mayor William B. Thompson sought the services of detectives, and Andrew H. Green, a prosperous manufacturer, promised to finance the investigation. Soon after it began the Wabash railroad applied for the closing of a Detroit street on the grounds that it wanted to erect a warehouse and otherwise increase its shipping facilities. The application was held up in the council for a time. Then suddenly the council granted the application by vote of several members who had previously opposed the measure.

The catching of Alderman Glinnan precipitated the raid on the council chamber. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the council leader went to a room in a downtown office building, accepted $1,000 in marked bills from the detective, who has been posing as a Wabash railroad attorney for months, and a moment later was taken into custody.

MAY TRY INDIANAPOLIS PLAN

Philadelphia Officials Consider Establishing Chain of Municipal Stores and Markets.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—Director Cooke of the municipal department of supplies is collecting data with the idea of solving the cost of high living by opening co-operative stores for the benefit of the city employees.

At the orders of the director, letters were sent to all employees of the department of public works requesting them to have their wives make out a list showing the exact price they paid for household commodities. In the list were included butter, eggs, berries, potatoes, poultry, meats and vegetables.

It develops that Director Cooke has been studying the methods of Mayor Shank of Indianapolis and if the plan can be worked out successfully there will be a chain of grocery stores and meat markets and vegetable stands taking in every section of the city, all to be run by the city.

Grant Charter for Peru Road.

Dover, Del., July 27.—The secretary of state has granted a charter to the Amazon Pacific Railway company, authorizing the corporation to acquire railroads, steamboat lines, ferries and other business in which steam or electricity can be used in Peru. The company has an authorized capital stock of $30,000,000. The incorporators are New Yorkers.

Populists to St. Louis.

St. Louis, July 27.—St. Louis will have a national political convention after all. The Populists have found St. Louis to their liking. James H. Ferris of Joliet, Ill., chairman of the national committee of the People's party, has announced St. Louis as the tentative selection. August 13 has been agreed upon as a tentative date.

WILLIAM M. BULLITT

CLAIMS ARVOUR DEFRAUDED HIM

Former General Manager Sues Packers for $169,846.

ALLEGES CONTRACT WAS BROKEN

W. D. Miles Asserts Amount Paid Him for His Stock When He Left Company Was Much Less Than Sum Actually Due.

Chicago, July 27.—William D. Miles, former general manager of the Armour Packing company at Kansas City, and one of the chief witnesses for the government in the recent packers' trial, charges that he has been defrauded out of $169,846.74 in a bill for an accounting just filed in the circuit court against J. Ogden Armour, Charles W. Armour and the Armour Packing company.

Miles declares that as an inducement to take the position of general manager at Kansas City in February, 1894, he was promised an interest in the business, and later received 1,000 shares of stock in the company below the market price.

Offered Shares of Stock.

Miles entered the employment of the Armour company in 1887 when it was a partnership concern. In February, 1902, the bill states, J. Ogden Armour offered the shares of stock to Miles in accordance with his father's wishes at a price of $170.82 a share, and agreed to carry the stock at the rate of 4 per cent a year on the purchase price of $170,729.

Under a contract signed by Miles when the sale of the stock to him was negotiated, the Armour's had the right to terminate the agreement at any time by paying Miles the amount due.

Signed a Release.

On December 21, 1903, Miles claims, he was notified by J. Ogden Armour that he had decided to terminate the contract and pay him what was due. Two days later Miles signed a release of his rights and received $40,846.74 in final settlement, which was on a basis of $211.6 per share, according to the allegations in the complaint.

In this bill Miles alleges that the stock on August 1, 1902, was worth $365 a share, and that the actual amount due him under the contract was $209,940.27. Miles asked that the receipt and release be nullified and that the defendants be compelled to account to him for what he claims is really due him.

CHARGES SOLDIERS WERE DRUNK

Members of Regular Army Said to Have Been on Debash at Camp Douglas, Wis.

Chicago, July 27.—War department officials may be called on to investigate reports published here that members of the Illinois and Wisconsin national guard and of the regular army gathered at Camp Douglas, Wis., to take part in maneuvers, engaged in a drunken orgy a few hours before the start of the campaign. It is alleged that officers in charge made no effort to put an end to the debauchery.

Insults to women, street brawls and soldiers in a stupor on sidewalks or fallen into gutters are alleged to have made the opening of the campaign a mockery. The men of the "red" army are not accused. They were 15 miles away.

Officials in a Wreck.

Huntington, W. Va., July 27.—A special train on the Guyana Valley branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio carrying President George Stevens, Fourth Vice President Caples, Superintendent Carey and other officials was derailed and wrecked at an early hour near Barberville. The train was proceeding slowly owing to the bad condition of the track. It was due to this fact that the accident did not result in fatalities.

Fell From a Sleeper.

Springfield, Mass., July 27.—The body of Curtis Nichols, a traveling salesman, who occupied a berth in a sleeper on the Chicago Express, which left Springfield early in the morning, was found in a gully adjoining the tracks west of here several hours later. It is believed that he fell out of the window while asleep.

Whites Hanged for Killing Negroes.

Nashville, Tenn., July 27.—Two white men, George Sheldon and John Bailey, were hanged here for the murder of Ben Pettigrew, an old negro, and his two children. As Pettigrew and his children came along the road they were shot down. Dispute over land is said to have been the murder motive.

Platform Fell With 200.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 27.—Thirty persons were injured, several dangerously, when 200 Masons and their families, seated on a wooden platform covering a small ravine in front of an open-air theater at Wheeling Park, where precipitated to the ground by the collapse of the structure.

The New Manager

By Mary Barrett Howard

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

Mrs. Amos Rood was bustling happily about her neat kitchen, her pleasant face even more beaming than usual.

"Amos is sixty years old today," she explained to the milkman from whom she bought a half-pint of cream besides the customary pint of milk, "an' I'm goin' to get an extra nice dinner."

The 12 o'clock whistle had sounded. The peach meringue pie which was to be the crowning touch of the feast had been brought from the pantry and set upon a side table; the roast chicken was done to a turn; the tomato bisque was ready to pour into the tureen, and as every housewife knows, tomato bisque will curdle if allowed to stand.

"I do wish Amos would come," the little woman fluttered. "That cream o' tomato won't be fit to eat."

Glancing uneasily out of the window she started at sight of a curiously familiar, yet unfamiliar, figure coming slowly up the street. Sure that bowed, bent old man could not be Amos! He had never looked like that, even when his rheumatism was at its worst.

But the next instant she had flung open the door and was running down the garden walk.

"Oh, what is it—what ails you, Amos?" she cried, putting her arms about him to help him up the steps.

"Don't be scared, Lucy—I ain't sick," the man said, with a brave attempt at a reassuring smile.

But once under the shelter of his own roof, safe from prying or pitying neighborly eyes, Amos Rood broke down altogether. Sinking into a chair he dropped his head upon the little table, so gayly decked in honor of the day with tea-roses and heliotrope from the garden beds, and Mrs. Rood's

Found the Solitude He Craved.

"Well, well, Lucy," the man said pacifically. "The company was good to me that time I had typhoid, ten years ago. Didn't I get three months' leave of absence with full pay and passes for us both so we could take a nice trip?"

"Three months' leave in twenty-five years!" moaned Mrs. Rood. "And now that new manager's going to take away your pension. Oh, I know you think I'm awful, Amos, but I just hate that grasping, greedy old company that works its men to death just the way it does its poor horses, so's to save a little more money!"

"It hurts me to hear you talk like that, Lucy," Amos Rood protested loyally. "The company does the best it can—it has troubles of its own."

"Well, I won't say another word if you don't want I should, Amos," the little woman promised, brushing the angry tears from her eyes. "I ain't afraid but we'll get along somehow. It just made me mad to think how little the company seemed to appreciate how honest and faithful you've been. Now you come and wash up and eat your birthday dinner before it's all spoiled."

But though Amos Rood valiantly attempted to do justice to the little feast, it was evident to the anxious wife who watched him that the dainty viands that she had prepared with such care were as dust and ashes to his palate. He looked stunned and bewildered by the unexpected blow which had been dealt him, and as he pushed back his chair from the table, he said slowly:

"I'd calculated to finish up that job of Brown's this afternoon, but when I got that letter I sent 'em word not to expect me—I didn't feel equal to tackle 'em figures today. But I'll paint them storm-doors you wanted done, Lucy. It'll be quiet out there in the barn, and I—I want to think things over."

Mrs. Rood looked after him wistfully. "I guess maybe he would be better by himself," she thought humbly. "I wouldn't wonder if my everlasting gabble bothered him some when he's got things he wants to think over. Well, I'll fly around and straighten up so's will look pleasant to him when he comes in, an' maybe if I was to fix that chicken into a scallop he'd relish it for supper. He didn't eat scarcely a mite o' dinner."

But although Amos Rood had found the solitude he craved, there was something terrifying to him in the emptiness of the great barn, and as he resolutely set himself to the task of painting the "storm doors" he had mentioned, he began to wish vaguely that old Dolly were still alive to stamp her iron shod feet and to nicker to him "socially from her stall."

Then, with a sudden pang, he realized that he was glad that the old horse who had been his and Lucy's friend and companion for so many years, had died last month, for how could he have brought himself to sell her when their little home was broken up? The brush dropped from his nerveless hand as he muttered, yes, it would come to that!

Lucy said that they would manage some way, but Lucy, with all her cheery common sense and thrift, had a woman's ignorance of the grim fact that two and two always make four, and never by any chance five or six.

Perhaps, by selling their little place and living on the proceeds they might manage to keep together for a few years more, but the end was inevitable. Sooner or later Lucy would be obliged to go to the well-to-do sister who had never attempted to conceal her conviction that the pretty, energetic girl might have done better than to marry Amos Rood.

As for him, there would be nothing left but the shelter of the county poor house.

Something seemed to snap in the man's brain. Why shouldn't he quietly get out of it all, while there was still something to keep Lucy from entire dependence on a woman like prosperous, self-satisfied Jane Thorn? She would mourn for him he knew, but death is easier to bear than some other things.

Suddenly he paused, arrested in his grim preparations for the deed on which he was resolved.

"Amos! Amos!" his wife was calling.

Ten, yes, five moments more and he would have been forever deaf to that tender voice, and Lucy would have come and found him—he shuddered with a sick repulsion. He had been selfish—cowardly—mad—but Lucy's light feet were running along the garden paths and she was calling again:

"Amos! Oh, Amos, do please hurry!"

The man stumbled blindly to the door. The next instant he was standing in the warm sunlight he had never thought to feel again, with Lucy's arms about his neck; her happy tears upon his cheek.

"Oh, Amos," she was bubbling joyously, "the general superintendent himself is in the house! It's perfectly lovely to hear him swear. He says the new manager has exceeded his authority altogether, and that the company does know how to appreciate faithful service such as yours has been! And only think, instead of taking away your pension, he intends to increase it! Why, Amos, we'll be rich!"

"We'd never have done that much if it hadn't been for you, Lucy," her husband said gratefully. "You're a master hand at contriving. But it ain't the company's fault that I got all crippled up with rheumatism, so's I couldn't do my work."

"I'd like to know if it ain't, Amos Rood!" she flashed. "I'd like to know if you wa'n't kept all those years in camp, underground office and not al-

TOLD IN JAPANESE ENGLISH

Comprehensive Essay on the British, as Written by Small Subject of the Mikado.

There is a large missionary school in Tokio, Japan, where the teaching is in English. One of the pupils recently wrote a composition on "England," and we append some choice extracts:

"The England which occupied of the largest and greatest dominion which rarely can be. The Englishman always works with a very powerful hands and the long legs, and even the eminent mind and his chin is so strong as deserved iron. Being spread out from Europe to Australia to America his dominion is dreadfully extensive, so that his countrymen boastfully says 'the sun are never sets on our dominion.' The testimony of English say that he that lost the common sense, he never had any benefit, though he had gained a complete world." The English are cunning men to establish a great empire of the paradise. As the Englishman always confide the object of the pure and the order to be holy and they reproach him if any of them are killed to death with the contention of other men."

But though Amos Rood valiantly attempted to do justice to the little feast, it was evident to the anxious wife who watched him that the dainty viands that she had prepared with such care were as dust and ashes to his palate. DAILY DEMOCRAT-FORUM

(Successor to the Maryville Republican)

NO. 47.

MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, SATURDAY, JULY 27, 1912.

VOLUME 3.

'WHITE WAY' AGAIN

CITY COUNCIL HAD THE MATTER UNDER CONSIDERATION FRIDAY.

GAVE HELLER HIS LICENSE

For Six Months at Least Maryville's Wettest Block is to Have Saloon-Sidewalk Ordinances Passed.

The plan to have a "white way" in Maryville on Main street from Second to Fifth street was discussed by the city council at their meeting held Friday evening. The council is favorable to the proposition, which was presented by John I. Hoffman, secretary of the Commercial club. The plan is to have the merchants on this street install the lights, to be a similar light to the one in front of the Empire theater, and then to have the city pay for the upkeep. The intention is to have three posts on each side of a block, these posts to have five lights each.

The county court will be interviewed by Mr. Hoffman to see if the county would help in the matter of putting up the lights on the west side of the court house yard.

Many other cities the same size as Maryville, have the "white way," which is a good proposition for any city.

The council granted a saloon license to W. A. Heller. The saloon opened for business Saturday morning. The license is for only six months.

Several ordinances condemning the sidewalks on South Depot street were passed.

NEW CHICKEN DISEASE.

Cause is Attributed to Inactivity of the Birds During the Hot Summer Months.

The poultry department at the University of Missouri has had its attention called to a disease which seems to be attacking young chicks weighing over a pound. One farmer reported losing over one hundred and that his neighbors were losing them in a similar manner. An examination proved the trouble to be visceral gout.

There are no symptoms previous to death aside from the chick having an unusual appetite. Also the birds are very poor in flesh. Upon examination the membranes lining the abdominal cavity and the intestines and also those surrounding the heart are covered with grayish, slate colored specks. Gout is caused by failure of the kidneys to perform their functions and the gray specks are crystals of uric acid. Probably the inactivity of the bird during hot weather has much to do with the trouble. In this particular case the feed consisted largely of corn and corn meal, which would cause the trouble.

The cure is to give the chicks a dose of epsom salts at least twice a week until the trouble ceases one-quarter teaspoonful to each bird. As a preventative measure, epsom salts in the drinking water, a tablespoonful to a gallon fed once a week will prove helpful. The feed should not consist of corn alone, but bran should be used in the ration. The ration used for growing chicks at the university experiment station consists of wheat and cracked corn and a dry mash consisting of bran, middlings, corn meal, equal parts by weight, to which is added 10 per cent beef scrap. By supplying plenty of green food, shade, fresh water and skim milk, no such trouble has occurred in the university flocks.

Merrill Christy is Recovering.

Dr. W. B. Christy, who was called to Hot Springs, Ark., several weeks ago by the illness of his son Merrill Christy, of typhoid fever, has returned and resumed work as district superintendent of the M. E. conference. Dr. Christy's son will arrive in Maryville Monday to remain until he has fully recovered from his sickness.

Returned Home.

Mrs. W. C. VanCleve and sons, William and Kenneth, returned home Saturday morning from a visit at LaGrange, Mo., and at Moberly. They have been away since the first of the year, being with Mr. VanCleve at Washington.

The Trullinger boy, not being a swimmer, went into a deep place in the river and went under, but was rescued in time by the Morse boy, who is an expert swimmer. The boy was unconscious for some time afterward.

REPORT BIG YIELDS

WHEAT AND OATS CROP IN COUNTY SURPRISINGLY LARGE.

QUALITY ALSO EXTRAGOOD

J. A. KAVANAUGH THRESHED OVER 75 BUSHELS OF OATS TO THE ACRE—MANY OTHERS HAVE BIG CROPS.

Reports are coming in from over the county of the large wheat and oats yield by the farmers. The crop was an exceptionally good one.

J. A. Kavanaugh of Graham was in the city Saturday and reported that on his farm, near Graham, which is run by Matt Hall, he had an average of seventy-five and one-third bushels of oats to the acre. He had only eight acres planted in oats. This is the highest oats yield yet reported. His rye yield average thirty bushels to the acre.

Mr. Kavanaugh is of the opinion that there will be a bumper corn crop in the country if we will get some more rain soon.

On Richard Kyle's farm, near Graham, which is run by Frank Kettler, they had an average of forty bushels of wheat to the acre.

Preston Seafers of Maryville, who has a farm in the Harmony church neighborhood, reported that he had an average of twenty-nine and one-third bushels of wheat out of seventy acres. He had it sent to the elevator at Ravenwood, managed by Joe Peterson, and received 90 cents a bushel for it. He has 800 more bushels to thresh.

BIG YIELD OF WHEAT.

Henry Russell, living two miles south of Hopkins, has just finished threshing a fourteen-acre field of wheat that yielded him 51½ bushels to the acre. Would anyone grumble at that.

The Democrat-Forum would be glad to publish from the farmers over the county what their wheat and oats yield amounted to.

RECIPE FOR KEEPING COOL.

WILEY'S SUCCESSOR TELLS HOW TO LIVE IN HOT WEATHER.

Suggestions for keeping cool have been issued by the agricultural department. The advice of the department, while not original, is generally recognized to be sound. To follow it, one must be moderate in eating, moderate in moving, and must not take more than one tiny drink, the kind that tinkles in a glass, during an evening. Then if one carefully and thoroughly dismisses all thoughts of the heat from the mind, complete and refreshing coolness will result, according to the agricultural experts.

"Don't think it is hot, don't worry and don't get heated," said Dr. R. E. Doolittle, acting chief of the pure food bureau and successor to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert. "Don't look at the thermometer every two minutes. Just try to forget the weather and you'll be surprised to find how much less you feel it."

"Alcoholic drinks, beer, gin, or anything like it should be avoided," he continued, thoughtfully wiping the perspiration from his brow and shifting his chair the better to get the relief of the cooling breezes from an electric fan. "A little ice water, I find, is not harmful. Possibly one tiny drink, the kind that tinkles in the glass, taken in the evening, is all right.

"There is no objection to lemonade and soda fountain beverage. The acids and soda in the latter are positively beneficial to ward off heat. Once a day is often enough to eat meat in hot weather—never two or three times. Be sure, too, that any fish or sea foods are absolutely fresh. These and stale milk cause typhoid. Ice cream, too, is not harmful."

"Moderation in all things, eating and working, is imperative. Take a vacation, sure. If you can't, be sure your wife does; she probably needs it more than you do. Every man, though, ought to take a vacation. Vacations are good investments for any business firm to give their employees. Also loaf, sleep, and take it as easy as you can all the time. Don't overexert."

"Wear as light underwear as possible. But above all things stay away from the thermometers and forget the weather."

HERE FROM GRAHAM.

The following from Graham were in the city Saturday: J. A. Kavanaugh, Thomas Fleming, Dr. Morgan, J. C. Decker, Wm. Morris and John Kennedy.

VOTED FOR BOOHER

BIGGERSTAFF SAYS HE IS DEMOCRAT—WILL SUPPORT NOMINEE.

QUALITY ALSO EXTRAGOOD NOT ALWAYS FOR PEACE

J. A. KAVANAUGH THRESHED OVER 75 BUSHELS OF OATS TO THE ACRE—MANY OTHERS HAVE BIG CROPS.

The St. Joseph Editor Thinks Congressman is Not So Much of a Peace Advocate After All.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 27.—To the Editor of The Democrat-Forum: In all due respect to Brother VanCleve, whose journalistic ability I greatly admire, and as publicity manager for B. Raleigh Martin, I cannot refrain from answering VanCleve's article on "A Peace Advocate" in yesterday's Democrat-Forum.

While Mr. Booher may be a peace advocate he has never demonstrated it. His three personal encounters in congress and his willingness to engage in fist fights under any and all circumstances do not brand him as a peace advocate.

The first time I ever saw Mr. Booher he was engaged in a personal encounter with an opposing attorney in a murder case at Plattsburgh, Mo.

By inuendo VanCleve seeks to leave the impression that as Mr. Martin's press manager I am a Republican.

Such is not the case. I am a member of the Monroe club at St. Joseph, have voted the Democratic ticket for eight years, and to my personal knowledge have twice voted for C. F. Booher as the Democratic nominee for congress.

In the bare possible event of his being nominated I shall vote for him again.

I only entered this political fight through my personal attachment to B. Raleigh Martin and through my dislike to the hypocritical attitude that has always been assumed by Mr. Booher on all public affairs.

At a later date we shall take up and dissect Mr. Booher's corporation affiliations, which have recently been exposed in congress; in fact, no later than last Thursday.

B. C. BIGGERSTAFF.

The articles supporting both Mr. Booher and Mr. Martin, appearing from time to time in this paper, are paid articles and represent the views of campaign managers for the two candidates. The Democrat-Forum wishes to allow the widest latitude in extolling the merits of each candidate, but will draw the line in all future articles at anything savoring of a personal attack upon the character of opponents.—[Ed., Democrat-Forum.]

INCOME TAX ACT PASSES SENATE

Provides for Payment of One Per Cent on Amounts Over $5,000.

FRATERNAL ORDERS EXCEPTED

Tax Not to Apply to Labor Organizations—Plan to Check Tobacco Monopoly, Offered by Hitchcock, Was Defeated.

Washington, July 27.—After weighing it down with two amendments known to be objectionable to the Democrats, the senate passed the house special excise tax bill by a vote of 37 to 18. The measure provides for a tax of 1 per cent on incomes of $5,000 a year or more, both of individuals and corporations.

The amendments provide for a repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act and the creation of a tariff commission. The first was offered by Senator Bronna of North Dakota and the latter by Senator Cummins of Iowa. Cummins' amendment was the same as that lost when the Penrose substitute wool bill was turned down in favor of the La Follette measure.

Might be Unconstitutional.

The Democratic majority stood almost solidly against any change in the house bill that would threaten its success. They declared the "tax on business" was clearly constitutional, while an income tax law had once been held unconstitutional by the supreme court and might again suffer that fate, until the states ratify the amendment to the federal constitution.

The measure was changed from the original house bill only in minor particulars except for the addition of the Canadian reciprocity repeal, and the permanent tariff commission provision. It will go back to the house for the approval of that body and it is believed an agreement soon will be reached, so that a perfected measure can be laid before the president for his approval.

Special Tobacco Tax Failed.

The senate made a change in the excise bill so that the tax would not apply to labor organizations, agricultural associations or fraternal organizations of an insurance character. That amendment was offered by Senator Fletcher. A plan to check the tobacco monopoly by a special excise tax on production above a certain amount, offered by Senator Hitchcock, was defeated.

The Hitchcock proposal was a special tax on the production of more than 20,000,000 pounds of tobacco, 400,000,000 cigars, the same number of cigarettes and 4,000,000 pounds of snuff by any one company. For an annual production above that quantity the tax would rise rapidly so that it would soon become prohibitive. Senator Hitchcock declared such a taxing system would curb a tobacco monopoly which the government had failed to do.

FEAR RESULT OF TRUST SUITS

Kingfisher, Ok., Business Men Wire Protest Against Proposed Steel Dissolution.

Guthrie, Ok., July 27.—Residents of Kingfisher wired Attorney General Wickersham at Washington as follows:

"We understand that you contemplate bringing legal proceedings against the United States Steel Corporation with a view of dissolving the same. Since the dissolution of the Standard Oil company and the tobacco trust their commodities sold to the people have steadily advanced in price.

"If you commence proceedings against the United States Steel Corporation, it can only result, in our opinion, in making the people pay more for all commodities in which steel is used. We hope you will seriously consider this matter before bringing the proposed suit."

The telegram was signed by C. W. Smith, bank president; P. S. Nagle, head of the Socialist party, and others.

NAVY MAY USE HYDROPLANES

Figures Called for to Equip Every Warship With Speedy Machines.

Washington, July 27.—Each battle ship of the navy will be equipped with a speedy hydroplane within the next year, if the latest plans of the navy department materialize.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, acting secretary, has called upon manufacturers to notify the department not later than August 15 whether they will submit hydroplane designs to meet naval requirement. It is proposed to have machines sustain a speed in the air of not less than 50 miles an hour, carrying two passengers.

Needed New Tires.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 27.—A gang of bandits drove up in a motor car before a tire manufacturing shop in the downtown district, smashed a big plate glass window and stole more than $1,000 worth of tires. Despite the presence of numerous pedestrians on the street, the bandits took no precautions against making a noise in breaking the window.

EIGHT ALREADY UNDER ARREST

One Man Got $1,000, Others Smaller Amounts for Favorable Vote on Wabash Railroad Land Grant—Others Arrests Expected.

Detroit, Mich., July 27.—Eight aldermen and the secretary of the common council committees were placed under arrest on charges of accepting bribes and conspiracy to accept a bribe for their votes and influence in the passing of a measure affecting city property recently transferred to the Wabash railroad.

At least six other arrests of aldermen are expected and it is alleged that $3,700 passed hands in sums of $100 to $1,000. The officials already arrested are: Thomas Glinnan, president of the council, who is alleged to have received $1,000; E. R. Schreiter, Jr., secretary of council committees and also secretary of the American League of Municipalities, who is charged with agreeing to accept $500; Alderman Joseph L. Theison, Martin J. Ostrowski, Patrick O'Brien, Louis Tossey, Frank J. Mason, Louis Brosco and Alderman Deimel, the last three being charged with accepting $100 each.

"Honest Tom" Confessed.
Alderman Glinnan has long been known in city politics as "Honest Tom." When arrested it is said he turned over $1,000 in marked bills and made a complete confession. Schreiter, who, it is asserted by the authorities, engineered the affair, was arrested in his office. He had not received any money, but the officers say he went to the office of the detectives, who were acting under the guise of Wabash railroad officials, to get his money and saw the police who had just arrested Glinnan. It is said that he also made a statement to the officers.

The detectives assert they have caught their men not only with marked money but by telephonic testimony and phonograph records. Councilmen Changed Front.
The investigation which culminated in the arrests, has been going on since February, when rumors of graft in the aldermanic council body began to assume serious proportions. Mayor William B. Thompson sought the services of detectives, and Andrew H. Green, a prosperous manufacturer, promised to finance the investigation. Soon after it began the Wabash railroad applied for the closing of a Detroit street on the grounds that it wanted to erect a warehouse and otherwise increase its shipping facilities. The application was held up in the council for a time. Then suddenly the council granted the application by vote of several members who had previously opposed the measure.

The catching of Alderman Glinnan precipitated the raid on the council chamber. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the council leader went to a room in a downtown office building, accepted $1,000 in marked bills from the detective, who has been posing as a Wabash railroad attorney for months, and a moment later was taken into custody.

MAY TRY INDIANAPOLIS PLAN

Philadelphia Officials Consider Establishing Chain of Municipal Stores and Markets.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—Director Cooke of the municipal department of supplies is collecting data with the idea of solving the cost of high living by opening co-operative stores for the benefit of the city employees.

At the orders of the director, letters were sent to all employees of the department of public works requesting them to have their wives make out a list showing the exact price they paid for household commodities. In the list were included butter, eggs, berries, potatoes, poultry, meats and vegetables.

It develops that Director Cooke has been studying the methods of Mayor Shank of Indianapolis and if the plan can be worked out successfully there will be a chain of grocery stores and meat markets and vegetable stands taking in every section of the city, all to be run by the city.

CLAIMS ARMOUR DEFRAUDED HIM

Former General Manager Sues Packers for $169,848.

ALLEGES CONTRACT WAS BROKEN

W. D. Miles Asserts Amount Paid Him for His Stock When He Left Company Was Much Less Than Sum Actually Due.

Chicago, July 27.—William D. Miles, former general manager of the Armour Packing company at Kansas City, and one of the chief witnesses for the government in the recent packers' trial, charges that he has been defrauded out of $169,848.74 in a bill for an accounting just filed in the circuit court against J. Ogden Armour, Charles W. Armour and the Armour Packing company.

Miles takes that as an inducement to take the position of general manager at Kansas City in February, 1894, he was promised an interest in the business, and later received 1,000 shares of stock in the company below the market price.

Offered Shares of Stock.

Miles entered the employment of the Armour company in 1887 when it was a partnership concern. In February, 1902, the bill states, J. Ogden Armour offered the shares of stock to Miles in accordance with his father's wishes at a price of $170.82 a share and agreed to carry the stock at the rate of 4 per cent a year on the purchase price of $170,720.

Under a contract signed by Miles when the sale of the stock to him was negotiated, the Armour had the right to terminate the agreement at any time by paying Miles the amount due.

Signed a Release.

On December 21, 1903, Miles claims, he was notified by J. Ogden Armour that he had decided to terminate the contract and pay him what was due.

Two days later Miles signed a release of his rights and received $40, $48.74 in final settlement, which was on a basis of $211.6 per share, according to the allegations in the complaint.

In this bill Miles alleges that the stock on August 1, 1902, was worth $365 a share, and that the actual amount due him under the contract was $209,940.27. Miles asked that the receipt and release be nullified and that the defendants be compelled to account to him for what he claims is really due him.

CHARGES SOLDIERS WERE DRUNK

Members of Regular Army Said to Have Been on Debauch at Camp Douglas, Wis.

Chicago, July 27.—War department officials may be called on to investigate reports published here that members of the Illinois and Wisconsin national guard and of the regular army gathered at Camp Douglas, Wis., to take part in maneuvers, engaged in a drunken orgy a few hours before the start of the campaign. It is alleged that officers in charge made no effort to put an end to the debauchery.

Insults to women, street brawls and soldiers in a stupor on sidewalks or fallen into gutters are alleged to have made the opening of the campaign a mockery. The men of the "red" army are not accused. They were 15 miles away.

Officials in a Wreck.

Huntington, W. Va., July 27.—A special train on the Guyana Valley branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio carrying President George Stevens, Fourth Vice-President Caples, Superintendent Carey and other officials was derailed and wrecked at an early hour near Barberville. The train was proceeding slowly owing to the bad condition of the track. It was due to this fact that the accident did not result in fatalities.

Fell From a Sleeper.

Springfield, Mass., July 27.—The body of Curtis Nichols, a traveling salesman, who occupied a berth in a sleeper on the Chicago Express, which left Springfield early in the morning, was found in a gulley adjoining the tracks west of here several hours later. It is believed that he fell out of the window while asleep.

Whites Hanged for Killing Negroes.

Nashville, Tenn., July 27.—Two white men, George Sheldon and John Bailey, were hanged here for the murder of Ben Pettigrew, an old negro, and his two children. As Pettigrew and his children came along the road they were shot down. Dispute over land is said to have been the murder motive.

The New Manager

By Mary Barrett Howard

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

Mrs. Amos Rood was bustling happily about her neat kitchen, her pleasant face even more beaming than usual.

"Amos is sixty years old today," she explained to the milkman from whom she bought a half-pint of cream besides the customary pint of milk, "an' I'm goin' to get an extra nice dinner."

The 12 o'clock whistle had sounded. The peach meringue pie which was the crowning touch of the feast had been brought from the pantry and set upon a side table; the roast chicken was done to a turn; the tomato blague was ready to pour into the tureen, and as every housewife knows, tomato bisque will curdle if allowed to stand.

"I do wish Amos would come," the little woman fluttered. "That cream o' tomato won't be fit to eat."

Glancing uneasily out of the window she started at sight of a curiously familiar, yet unfamiliar, figure coming slowly up the street. Sure that bowed, bent old man could not be Amos! He had never looked like that, even when his rheumatism was at its worst. But the next instant she had flung open the door and was running down the garden walk.

"Oh, what is it—what ails you, Amos?" she cried, putting her arms about him to help him up the steps.

"Don't be scared, Lucy—I ain't sick," the man said, with a brave attempt at a reassuring smile.

But once under the shelter of his own roof, safe from prying or pitying neighborly eyes, Amos Rood broke down altogether. Sinking into a chair he dropped his head upon the little table, so gayly decked in honor of the day with tea-roses and heliotrope from the garden beds, and Mrs. Rood's head said slowly:

"I'd calculated to finish up that job of Brown's this afternoon, but when I got that letter I sent 'em word not to expect me—I didn't feel equal to tacklin' figures today. But I'll paint them storm-doors you wanted done, Lucy. It'll be quiet out there in the barn, and I—I want to think things over."

Mrs. Rood looked after him wistfully. "I guess maybe he would be better by himself," she thought humbly. "I wouldn't wonder if my everlastin' gabble bothered him some when he's got things he wants to think over. Well, I'll fly around and straighten up so's will look pleasant to him when he comes in, an' maybe if I was to fix that chicken into a scallop he'd relish it for supper. He didn't eat scarcely a mite o' dinner."

But although Amos Rood had found the solitude he craved, there was something terrifying to him in the emptiness of the great barn, and as he resolutely set himself to the task of painting the "storm doors" he had mentioned, he began to wish vaguely that old Dolly were still alive to stamp her iron shod feet and to nicker to him socially from her stall.

Then, with a sudden pang, he realized that he was glad that the old horse who had been his and Lucy's friend and companion for so many years, had died last month, for how could he have brought himself to sell her when their little home was broken up? The rush dropped from his nerveless hand as he muttered, yes, it would come to that!

Lucy said that they would manage some way, but Lucy, with all her cheery common sense and thrift, had a woman's ignorance of the grim fact that two and two always make four, and never by any chance five or six.

Perhaps, by selling their little place and living on the proceeds they might manage to keep together for a few years more, but the end was inevitable. Sooner or later Lucy would be obliged to go to the well-to-do sister who had never attempted to conceal her conviction that the pretty, energetic girl might have done better than to marry Amos Rood.

As for him, there would be nothing left but the shelter of the county poor house.

Something seemed to snap in the man's brain. Why shouldn't he quietly get out of it all, while there was still something to keep Lucy from entire dependence on a woman like prosperous, self-satisfied Jane Thorn? She would mourn for him he knew, but death is easier to bear than some other things.

Suddenly he paused, arrested in his grim preparations for the deed on which he was resolved.

"Amos! Amos!" his wife was calling.

"It wouldn't do a mite of good, Lucy," the man said, shaking his head.

"He says he's got proof I can earn a good living if I'm a mind to—but—I'm afraid I can't. I'm pretty good at figurin', and when the merchants here get their accounts balled up they're apt to send for me to straighten 'em out, but it's hard for a man of my age to get a steady job, even if I could keep it up day in and day out. Perhaps I was foolish to snap up those chances to add a little to our income. And yet," he added with a sigh, "that pension wasn't a very big one for two people to live on."

"I should say it wasn't," agreed Mrs. Rood vehemently. "I call it pretty doin's!" she went on fiercely. "Here's you all broken down, and all those years your salary was so small that though I've been as saving as I knew how, we've just managed to pay for this place and put a few hundred dollars in the bank."

"We'd never have done that much if it hadn't been for you, Lucy," her husband said gratefully. "You're a master hand at contriving. But it ain't the company's fault that I got all crippled up with rheumatism, se's I couldn't do my work."

"I'd like to know if it ain't, Amos Rood!" she flashed. "I'd like to know if you wain't kept all those years in a damp, underground office and not al-laid half the help you'd ought to try while I eat."

"Well, well, Lucy," the man said pacifically. "The company was good to me that time I had typhoid, ten years ago. Didn't I get three months' leave of absence with full pay and passes for us both so we could take a nice trip?"

"Three months' leave in twenty-five years!" moaned Mrs. Rood. "And now that new manager's going to take away your pension. Oh, I know you think I'm awful, Amos, but I just hate that grasping, greedy old company that works its men to death just the way it does its poor horses, so's to save a little more money!"

"It hurts me to hear you talk like that, Lucy," Amos Rood protested loyally. "The company does the best it can—it has troubles of its own."

"Well, I won't say another word if you don't want I should, Amos," the little woman promised, brushing the angry tears from her eyes. "I ain't afraid but we'll get along some way. It just made me mad to think how little the company seemed to appreciate how honest and faithful you've been. Now you come and wash up and eat your birthday dinner before it's all spoiled."

But though Amos Rood valiantly attempted to do justice to the little feast, it was evident to the anxious wife who watched him that the dainty viands that she had prepared with such care were as dust and ashes to his palate. He looked stunned and bewildered by the unexpected blow which had been dealt him, and as he pushed back his chair from the table, he said slowly:

TOLD IN JAPANESE ENGLISH

Comprehensive Essay on the British, as Written by Small Subject of the Mikado.

There is a large missionary school in Tokio, Japan, where the teaching is in English. One of the pupils recently wrote a composition on "England," and we append some choice extracts:

"The England which occupied of the largest and greatest dominion which rarely can be. The Englishman always works with a very powerful hands and the long legs, and even the eminence mind and his chin is so strong as deserved iron. Being spread out from Europe to Australia to America his dominion is dreadfully extensive, so that his countrymen boastfully say 'the sun are never sets on our dominion.' The testimony of English say that he that lost the common sense, he never had any benefit, though he had gained a complete world." The English are cunning mention to establish a great empire of the paradise. As the Englishman always confide the object of the pure and the order to be holy and they reproach him if any of them are killed to death with the contention of other men."

"Well, I won't say another word if you don't want I should, Amos," the little woman promised, brushing the angry tears from her eyes. "I ain't afraid but we'll get along some way.
